

The image shows a vertical scroll of news snippets from a website. At the top, there is a small image of a person in a red jacket. Below it, there are several text blocks, each representing a news item. The snippets are separated by horizontal lines and contain various text elements like dates and titles. The text is too small to read clearly, but it appears to be a list of news items related to COVID-19. At the bottom of the strip, there are logos for various organizations, including the French Republic, the European Union, and the World Health Organization.